DISFRANCHISED.

How Voters of Kentucky Are Denied Representation.

Strong Address Issued By Legislative Committee in Charge to Test in Courts.

To the people of Kentucky—At the last regular session of the General Assembly an act was passed dividing the State into 100 Representative districts, which has been approved by the Governor and clothed with all the outer habiliments or forms of law. The Constitution of Kentucky provides, among other things, that:

"The First General Assembly after the adoption of this Constitution shall divide the State into thirty-eight Senatorial districts, and one hundred Representative districts, as nearly equal in population as may be without dividing any county except where a county may include more than one district, which districts shall constitute the Senatorial and Representative districts for ten years. Not more than two counties shall be joined together to form a Representative district. Provided, in doing so the principle requiring every district to be as nearly equal in population as may be shall not be violated."

If, in making said districts, inequality of population shall be unavoidable, any advantage resulting therefrom shall be given to districts having the largest territory. No part of the county shall be added to another county to make a district, and the county forming a district shall be contiguous."

The General Assembly was directed every ten years thereafter to re-divide the State according to this rule.

Conceiving that the act in question was a gross violation of both the letter and spirit of the function, and that it deprived a large number of our people of the right of self-government, the undersigned were selected, by the unanimous voice of the Republican members of the Legislature, to take steps to assert the rights of the people of the State against this unjust, iniquitous and unconstitutional act of the Legislature.

"The right of a citizen to proportionate representation in the Legislature, so far as it can be practically carried into effect by the instrumentalities of human government, is recognized and protected by the Constitution." 155 Ill. 452.

By the act in question it appears that more than a quarter of a million of our people in twenty-four districts or rather in twelve of them, have been denied and excluded from representation in the Legislature to all intents and purposes.

The committee having occasion to also consider the acts of the Legislature of May 3, and June 28, 1893, dividing the state into Senatorial and Representative districts, and also the act on March 11, 1898, dividing the State into Congressional districts found that they were each and all grossly unfair and violative of the State or Federal law governing the subject.

As evidence that we are not mistaken in our views on this matter we attach hereto tables showing a number of Senatorial and Representative districts taken from the various acts of 1898.

These figures taken from the acts and the census of State speak more eloquently and strongly than anything your committee can say on the subject, and need but little comment at our hands.

That we have a remedy against the violation of the supreme law of the State and the United States manifested in these various acts of the Legislature seems to be too clear for dispute or argument.

We have found in none of the acts that have been contested and held invalid in our sister State anything more grossly unfair and violative of the rights of the citizen to participate, upon equal terms in the affairs of this State government than the acts of our own Legislature that we propose to test in the courts.

At the last election for President in our State the Republican party cast more than 47 per cent. of the total vote cast and the Democratic party a fraction under 50 per cent. If the Assembly districts were fairly divided the Republicans would have sixty five members of the Legislature instead of thirty-two now held by them.

The committee, after a careful consideration of the law and the facts, have agreed that it is the duty of our people to contest the act of the General Assembly of May 3, 1898, June 28, 1893; March 11, 1898, and act of March, 1906, and we have the utmost confidence that with the proper effort each and all of these alleged laws with set aside and held for naught, and the Legislature will be reconvened and laws more in accordance with justice, right and the Constitution will be enacted.

We deem it prudent that various suits be filed against each act and in every form and manner that such suits have been filed in our sister States, so that there can be no question that some of the number are properly brought, and will therefore have to be decided upon their merits.

We have secured eminent counsel to take charge of the litigation in behalf of the people, and it will require considerable money to pay the expenses of these various suits, give our chosen counsel a moderate fee for their services and the actual expense incurred by the committee in prosecuting the contests in the courts. The committee is serving without salary or hope of any financial reward for its services in the matter.

This is not a party matter, as it strikes at the very root of the principle of self-government, and the equal right of all citizens, under the law to participate through their representatives, in the enactment of their laws.

All men irrespective of their affiliations are asked to take an interest in this contest for the preservation of the rights of the people, and to aid us both with voice, pen and purse in our efforts to assert and maintain the Constitutional rights of Kentuckians.

According to the census of 1900 the State of Kentucky has a population of 2,147,174, which made the average Representative district 21,471. By House Bill No. 216, which became a law at the last regular session of the Legislature, twenty-four of the one hundred districts so created have a population and area as follows:

Districts.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
99	Spencer	7,407	204
25	Wolfe	8,764	239
29	Hancock	8,914	105
41	Ballitt	9,692	301
57	Anderson	10,051	224
39	Maude	10,533	204
32	Larue	10,764	209
78	Boone	11,170	242
21	Simpson	11,624	190
63	Jessamine	11,925	166
67	Garrard	12,042	234
85	Bracken	12,137	193
12	12 counties	124,983	2,785

These counties are hardly entitled to six, but are given twelve Representatives:

Average	1 county to district	104.11	233
District.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
100	Elliott and Carter	39,615	770
88	Fleming and Bath	31,808	589
3	Graves	33,204	550
89	Lewis and Greenup	33,300	794
71	Jackson, Owsley, Perry and Letcher	34,883	1,240
97	Floyd, Knott and Magoffin	36,292	1,028
10	Christian	37,962	603
58	Royd and Lawrence	38,446	608
95	Pike, Johnson and Martha	42,196	1,250
68	Whitley and Knox	42,387	930
70	Larrel, Rockcastle, Clay and Leslie	52,125	1,610
26	Ohio, Butler and Edmondson	53,263	1,241
12	29 counties	496,451	11,394
Average	2.41 counties	38,871	948

These counties are entitled to twenty-two, but are given twelve Representatives:

The first group have a population and area as follows:	Pop.	Area.
124,983	2,785
496,451	11,394
Difference	341,518	8,519

Spencer county, with a population of 7,406 and an area of 204 square miles, has one Representative, while Ohio, Butler and Edmondson, with a combined population of 53,263 and an area of 1,241 square miles, is given only one Representative.

District.	County.	Population.	Area.
99	Spencer	7,407	204
26	Ohio-Butler-Edmondson	53,263	1,241

Difference 45,856 1,037

The twenty-sixth districts is more than seven times as large in population as the Ninety-ninth the difference being more than enough to constitute two average districts. By this arrangement one citizen of Spencer county has nearly as much voice in the Legislature as eight citizens of Ohio, Butler and Edmondson.

According to the census of 1890 the State of Kentucky had population of 1,858,635, which made the average Representative districts 18,586. By act of General Assembly of May 3, 1893, twenty-four of the districts so created had a population and area as follows, to-wit:

District.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
29	Hancock	9,214	195

These counties are entitled to seven, but are given twelve Representatives:

12	25 counties	332,293	10,117
Average	2.08	37,358	842

These counties are entitled to nearly eighteen, but are given twelve Representatives.

According to the census of 1900 these same districts had the following population, to-wit:

District.	Counties.	Population.
29	Hancock	9,844
31	Larue	10,704
30	Meade	10,533

Or a gain of 9,376 in ten years.

District.	Counties.	Population.
70	Larrel-Rockcastle	39,008
97	Knott-Floyd-Letcher	35,428
92	Breathitt-Lee-Magoffin	34,316

69	Whitley-Knox	42,387
98	Boyd-Lawrence	38,446
10	Christian	37,962
12	25 counties	417,983

Or a gain of 85,640 and giving to each of these districts an average population of 33,828, as against a present population of 11,681 for the other twelve districts.

The first group in 1890 had a population of 130,788

The second group of 1890 had a population of 332,293

The difference between the two groups of twelve districts each is 201,505

The first group in 1900 had a population of 140,179

The second group had by the same census 417,983

The difference between the two groups of twelve districts each is 277,750

By the act of May 3, 1893, Warren county, with a population of 30,158 according to the census of 1890, and an area of 528 square miles, was given two members of the Legislature and divided into two legislative districts—Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth.

According to the census of 1900 Warren county had a population of 29,770, and by House Bill No. 216 is given two members of the Legislature being divided into districts Twenty-three and Twenty-four in the act of 1893.

By the act of May 3, 1893, Christian county with a population of 34,188, according to the census of 1890, and an area of 684 square miles was given one member of the Legislature, and in House Bill No. 216 is only allowed one member, although according to the census of 1900 it had a population of 37,962, or an excess of 7,992 over Warren, and 166 square miles greater territory.

Graves county is larger in area and was larger in population both in 1890 and in 1900 than Warren, but is only given one Representative under the acts of 1893 and March 1896.

SENATORIAL DISTRICTS.

Twelve Senatorial districts were created by the act of the General Assembly of June 28, 1893 dividing the State into thirty-eight Senatorial districts, each of which should average a population of 48,941, as follows, to-wit:

District.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
30	Nicholas, Harrison and Robertson	32,362	647
23	Gallatin, Boone and Owen	34,533	748
31	Mason and Lewis	35,576	680
13	Hart Larue and Green	37,335	983
10	Brockridge, Hancock and Meade	37,674	1,004
15	Marion, Washington and Taylor	37,853	928
7	17 counties	215,333	6,080

These counties were entitled to four, but were given six Senators.

Districts.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
35	Rowan, Bath, Fleming, Carter and Menifee	56,890	1,573
36-37-38	Jefferson	188,598	371
33	Perry, Letcher, Clay, Harlan, Floyd, Pike, Knott, Leslie, Martin and Johnson	85,167	3,985
17	Larrel, Pulaski, Whitley, Knox, Bell, Jackson and Rockcastle	90,244	3,100
6	23 counties	429,899	3,100

These counties are entitled to eight almost nine Senators, instead of six.

Districts Seventeen and Thirty-three have 184,411 inhabitants according to the census of 1890 or 6,931 more than districts Ten, Thirteen, Twenty-three, Thirty and Thirty-one combined.

According to the census of 1900 the population of Kentucky was 2,147,174, and the Senatorial districts should, therefore, average 56,504.

According to the census of 1900 these same twelve districts had a population as follows, to-wit:

District.	Counties.	Population.
30	Counties	35,429
23	Counties	38,886
31	Counties	38,316
13	Counties	41,460
10	Counties	39,983
15	Counties	41,447
6	Counties	239,459

Or a gain in ten years of 15,126, and averaging 38,409 to each of the districts.

District.	Counties.	Population.

A comparison of districts Twenty-three and Seventeen show the following:

District.	Counties.	Population.	Area.
23	Counties	38,886	746
10	Counties	129,950	3,108

Difference 91,062 2,421

Taxation without representation is tyranny. It was for representation that our fathers fought in the Revolution. The right they secured for us has been taken away by the Kentucky Legislature. Under the infamous system now in operation in some districts the representation which would properly be given to one citizen is divided between two. To that extent each is disfranchised. It is only a question of degree. The right to disfranchise a citizen altogether is as great as the right to half disfranchise him. In other districts the representation which should be divided between two or three citizens is given to one. This still further proportionately reduces the representation of the citizen who has already been half disfranchised, and in some cases given only one-eighth of the voting strength allowed to a citizen in another part of the State.

This should not be a party question. It is a question of right. Parties and politics should have no more to do with its settlement with the ownership of chattles or the title to land. The one question should be decided upon the same principles of justice as the other.

We invite the co-operation of all citizens who recognize their responsibilities as such, and who believe in justice between men and man.

Young Folks Party.

The younger set of Hartford gave Miss Elsie Matthews a delightful surprise party last Saturday night. There was a nice crowd present and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. All kinds of games were played after which refreshments were served. At 12 o'clock everybody enjoyed the game "mouse" and went to his own house. Those present were Elizabeth Marks, Eliza Keown, Ruth Riley, Alma Riley, Alice Keown, Sarah Keown, Tina Yeiser, Bera Bean, Ozona Mosley, Isabelle Fair, Era Gardner, Bessie Collins, Alice Taylor and Lorena Saunders. Messrs. Otto Martin, Nay Foster, Ramer Tinsley, Frank Foreman, Willie Riley, Douglas Felix, Roy Heavrin, Martin Thomas, Henry Griffin, McHenry Holbrooks, Sydney Williams and Gardner.

Brother Wallace.

Bro. John F. Wallace was born the 20th day of October, 1834, in Ohio county, Ky., and departed this life April 19, 1906, at his home near Hartford, Ky., at 8 o'clock and 20 minutes in the morning. He was converted when but 12 years of age and united with the M. E. church and became a very active member of said church until age and bad health made it impossible for him to meet with the brethren at the house of worship. He was a class-leader for many years at the No Creek church where his home was.

Bro. Wallace was united in marriage to Miss Delilah A. Woodward, August 12, 1854. To this union 10 children were born, four of whom have passed to the great beyond years ago. On February 10, 1904, his beloved wife, Delilah A. Wallace, was called from her labors on earth to her reward in Heaven, and Bro. Wallace was yet able to say: "Thy will be done, O, God." Brother Wallace had been confined to his bed for six months and his death was not unexpected. The writer has visited him many times in his last sickness and heard him testify to the goodness of God and his faith in a Savior.

His body was taken to the No Creek church, under the shadow of his home, where the funeral was conducted by his pastor, assisted by the Rev. J. A. Bennett, in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

He leaves six children, two sisters and a host of grand-children to mourn the loss of him who was a kind and affectionate father, a good citizen and a true, devoted christian. He will be sadly missed in the church he loved so well. To his children let this be that which will bind you closer in affection and duties you owe to your father's God.

For death is but a covered way. That opens into light. Wherein no blinded child can stray Beyond its father's sight.

He was laid to rest in, the No Creek cemetery to await the call of his Father, who may say "Come, you have been faithful over a few things, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

ON THE PLAINS.

Observations of an Ohio County Boy Visiting in Texas.

Buffalo and Cow Boy Gives Place to Steam Plow and Motor Cars.

San Angelo, Texas, April 21.—I have been here for two days only, and I would be ashamed to write about this country except for the fact that I start for old Mexico early in the morning to be gone for one month in a wagon and away from Post office or any other means of communication.

This Country is a Chinese puzzle; an example on a large scale of the old adage. "It is the unexpected that happens." Nothing is impossible with God or western Texas. San Angelo was a U. S. Fort in 1860 and remained such for forty years—a cluster of stone buildings surrounding a parade ground. The buffalo and red Indian first and then the Texas steer and the cow boy were the only lords of these boundless acres of rolling pasture which surround the place on every side. About 1899 farming was begun and now the whole country for fifty miles is fenced and land that sold five years ago for less than $1 per acre now selling for $10. The city has 10,000 inhabitants and is the distributing point for the largest section of country supplied by a single city in the United States. Its freight wagon pulled by 8 ponies travel 150 miles as the radius of a semi-circle extending westward.

This morn while driving along macadamized streets I met a herd of more than 1000 cattle coming in from Devil River, 100 miles away. They were in charge of seven cow boys each wearing leather breeches, and the cow boys forgot their cattle to stare at a handsome motor car whose driver had obligingly stopped it on the curb to let the herd pass by. And so it is everywhere. The new citizens park is being made beautiful with Palm trees flowers and Vines, but the buffalo chips have not yet been all raked off and the wild cactus is undisturbed.

As I write a group of cow boys with lassos coiled about their saddles are galloping past a rubber tired vehicle on the street before me.

The nomad brushes elbows with the business men and in a short while the cow boy the trapper and the ranch man will be gone—even now he is giving place to the man with the steam plow and the cultivator. A Mexican passed up the main street yesterday eve leading a gray timber wolf by a chain. The wolf and the Mexican seemed each mortified to note that the citizens were almost unconscious of their presence.—They were interested in land and money—not wolves.

A man can get rich or get broke out here with less effort than Judge Wedding makes to live in Kentucky—but he can't be very certain which it will be.

But what's the difference even when broke he may have roses and "all sweet flowers in January and sleep X-mas might on the bare earth with one blanket over him and get up feeling fine as a fiddler.

It's a great country—but I want to see my Kentucky.

THOUSANDS OF DIVORCES.

Will Become Null and Void by Reasons of the Decision of the Supreme Court.

There is no doubt that the decision of the Supreme Court handed down recently will rip open thousands of divorces which were supposed to be binding by all parties to them. It will dissolve all marriages made by parties to such divorces afterwards and all children of those subsequent marriages will become illegitimate and will be unable to inherit property from their parents.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court revolutionary though it may seem is extremely simple in its actual bearing. In the first place it must be understood that it does not concern any divorce case whatever where there has been actual service upon the defendant and where the defendant actually has appeared in court in person or by an attorney.

It does not concern any divorce case whether the defendant is present in court or not when the offense for which divorce is granted was committed within the jurisdiction of the court.

The decision of the Supreme Court, expressed in the briefest possible form, is: That no court can grant a valid divorce unless the defendant is personally within the jurisdiction of the court or unless the offense for which the divorce is granted was committed within the jurisdiction of the court.

It is easy to see how widespread will be the effect of this decision. Every husband and wife who has secured a divorce in one State for an offense committed in another in which the defendant still resided is carried still in the State where he or she had his or her original domicile.

The decision does not absolutely annul divorces nor does it absolutely annul any subsequent marriages nor directly illegitimize the children. The divorce, the subsequent marriage, and the rights of the children may be attacked apparently by subsequent proceedings on the part of the party to the original marriage who was not consulted and who took no part in the divorce proceedings. That is to say, one State is not bound to accept the decree of a divorce court in another State unless the decree was found as the result of a complete jurisdiction of the defendant or the offense. Of course, if the defendant does not subsequently appeal to the court, the original decree stands because no one else has a right to question it.

In those cases, therefore, where what are known as "Dakota divorces" are not contested they will stand. If the defendant, whether man or woman has died, they will stand and the property rights of the new wife and children will not be interfered with.

Alligator Gars Destroy Game Fish.

A subject being much discussed among the sportsmen in New Orleans and elsewhere in Louisiana is that of the disappearance of the green trout from all of the bayous and lagoons. The cause of their rapid decrease is attributed to the fact that alligator gars are eating them almost as fast as they can multiply.

Only within the past few weeks has it been noted with alarm that gars are so numerous in all of the lakes bayous and lagoons that it is almost impossible for any other fish especially the green trout, to live and still more impossible for them to multiply. In fact it is stated by professional fishermen and others that in some places gars are so numerous as to almost impede the passage of pirogues and fishing boats. They lie in wait for the trout in the long grass along the shores, and devour the spawn of the trout destroying countless numbers of them at one mouthful. Fishmen using the gill net say that to every one of other kinds of fish caught there are at least ten gars.

This subject and some way to destroy the gar was discussed at length at a meeting recently held at Chef Menteur, at which all the professional hunters and fishermen of that immediate neighborhood were present and several plans were declared to be feasible. Mr. Frank Miller, president of the Audubon Society, said that he thought an excellent idea would be that of making hatcheries in or near the water inhabited by the green trout. He said that he thought the trout after it acquires the length of eight inches is able to move swiftly through the water, and thus enabled to protect itself to a great extent from the gars. At the same time that this is being done the destruction of the gars could be carried on. His plan for eradicating the gar was that a bounty to be paid the fishermen and for the Board of Commissioners for the protection of game in Louisiana to employ men as warden for the sole purpose of catching gars with the gill net paying them a salary out of the hunters' license funds. These plans met with much favor.

Starting a Pasture.

It is advisable in order to start a pasture, to first plow the land deeply and harrow well, thereby rendering the earth fine and in good condition for the seed. In selecting seeds it is best to get those varieties that are known to be adapted to the soil and climate, but be careful to use enough. Economy in seed is extravagance, a loss being the result in the end. Before sowing apply about 100 pounds of kainit per acre and two bushels of land plaster. If the land is plowed in the fall, sow lime on the surface and leave it there. A good start is everything, and the greater the variety of grasses the better the pasture.

Fame.

Two Americans who were traveling in England made a devout pilgrimage to Stratford-on-Avon, and several days wandering about the neighborhood. One day they met a countryman, and, pausing, one of the pilgrims said:

"My friend, I envy you your life here amid the fields that knew the Great Poetic youth. What sublime thoughts must come to you as you tread the paths his feet trod!"

The rustic simply stared and the American demanded if he knew of whom he was speaking receiving a prompt negative.

"Why, of Shakespeare, man. You must know of him!" the pilgrim explains stammering with horror.

After some coaxing the man finally admitted that he had heard of Shakespeare and believed that he "wrote for summat."

And have you any idea for what he wrote—was it the Times?" the American inquired with infinite sarcasm.

"Oh it wan't the Lunnon paper," the man said. "I know it was summat solemn like. I think it was the Bible, Belike."

How Grant Fooled the Enemy's Picket---Escape of Rachel.

[New York Sun.]

Mme. Rachel, the great actress, was resting alone in her dressing room one night preparatory to going on the stage, when a man suddenly entered and drawing a dagger, said he was going to kill her if she did not at once marry him.

The actress saw at a glance that the man was mad and meant what he said. So with the utmost coolness she replied:

"Certainly I will marry you. I wish nothing better. Come with me to the priest at once; I have had him come here for the purpose."

She took his arm and they went out together—to where there was assistance of course, and the man was immediately put under arrest.

An instance of great presence of mind under a very different aspect of affairs was narrated by John Russell Young, says a writer in the Grand Magazine. Once during the Civil war, when Grant was in subordinate command, he was reconnoitring alone near the enemy's lines. Suddenly he found himself confronted by one of the Confederate's pickets, who was for arresting him. "Sho! sho!" said Grant with the utmost coolness; can't you see I am reconnoitring in the enemy's uniform? Don't make noise; I shall be back directly."

And he walked quietly away until out of the picket's sight, then ran as nimbly as he could.

A similar piece of presence of mind under circumstances of great danger is related of Laurence Oliphant by Mr. Innes Shand. Oliphant once declared that his nerves were never more severely tried than when he was attending a Socialist assembly in Lyons, as correspondent of the London Times.

It was whispered about in the room that a spy connected with that paper was present, said the mob suddenly arose to discover the introducer, breathing threats meanwhile which made Oliphant's hair incline to stand on end. That gentleman, however, hopped up with as much eagerness as anybody and searched carefully under the benches as if he longed for nothing so much as to discover the alleged spy.

Modern Colonizing as a Business Proposition.

In the last two years Germany's Southwest Africa has cost the German Government $150,000,000 and some thousand of lives lost by massacres and in course of operations to subdue the natives. It seems a good deal to pay for imperfect pacification of a territory which contains no more than 5,000 European residents and of which the combined imports amount to no more than $2,500,000 a year. If the nations of the world ever become sane enough to consider modern colonization as a business proposition there will be an international auction at which there will be bargains for buyers.

HELD TO ANSWER

For Sturgis Bank Robbery is Geo. Gray one of the Looters of Bank of Hartford.

The examining trial of Geo. G. Gray charged with robbing the Sturgis bank was held before Judge A. W. Clements Wednesday says the Morning Sun.

The commonwealth produced a chain of evidence that almost conclusively fixes the crime on Gray. It was shown when and where the four men who committed the robbery boarded a north bound I. C. freight train shortly after the burglary, at Dekoven they left the train and, it seems, separated, Gray and another of the burglars going to the Ohio river, where they crossed in a skiff. A witness from Shawneetown, Ill., testified to having met the two men on the road and giving them a "ride" into Shawnee.

From Shawnee they went to Equality. The proprietor of the hotel in Equality testified to Gray and his partner having stopped with him Saturday night after the robbery, which occurred Thursday night. Hestated that when they came to his hotel they were muddy and about as tough looking men as he had ever seen. After supper Saturday night, they went out and came back with new outfits from the skin out. Sunday the two men got drunk and proceeded to disturb the citizens of Equality generally. Sunday night they gave the hotel a roll of greenbacks to keep for them. There were $465 in the roll. They left Equality Monday.

From Equality they made their way to Memphis and then around to Hartford, Ky., where, about six months after the Sturgis robbery, they robbed the Hartford Bank. This resulted in their capture and Gray was sentenced to the Eddyville penitentiary for five years, which sentence he had just served when arrested for robbing the Sturgis bank.

Witnesses were brought here from all along the route and each identified Gray as being the man.

After hearing the evidence Judge Clements held Gray over to await the action of the grand jury, fixing his bond at $2,000. Being unable to give this he was sent back to jail.

The bottle is square and has flowers or leaves engraved on the side. Mr. Lail will send the relic to Louisville during the Home Coming Week. He has refused $10.00 for the bottle and will doubtless get a large sum for it.

A Wonderful Record.

As made up by improved and exact processes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. It cures the backache, periodical headaches, the dragging-down distress in the pelvic region, the pain and tenderness over lower abdominal region, dries up the pelvic catarrhal drain, so disagreeable and weakening, and overcomes every form of weakness incident to the organs distinctly feminine.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, the makers of which are not afraid to print their formula on the bottle wrapper, thus taking their patrons into their full confidence. It is the only medicine for women, every ingredient of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the most eminent medical practitioners and writers of our day, recommending it for the diseases for which "Favorite Prescription" is used. It is the only put-up medicine for women, through druggists, which does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, so harmful to the long run, especially to delicate women. It has more genuine cures for women combined, having saved thousands of sufferers from the operating table and the surgeon's knife. It has restored delicate, weak women to strong and vigorous health and virility, making motherhood possible, where there was barrenness before, thereby brightening and making happy many thousands of homes by the advent of little ones to strengthen the martial bonds and add sunshine where gloom and despondency had reigned before.

evils is recommended, but must be conducted with sanity. Those who see nothing but evil in the world become a part of the evil. The President says he hails relentless exposure and attack on every evil man, whether in business, politics or social life, provided the truth is strictly sought and respected, and hysterical exaggeration avoided. It is wrong and harmful to assail even a scoundrel untruthfully. Yet the President emphasizes the point that to denounce mud-slinging does not mean an indorsement of whitewashing. He would find the golden mean, for any excess invites reaction. Men with muck rakes, the President says, are often indispensable to the well-being of society, but must know when to stop, and not assume that muck-raking alone is the business of life. There is any amount of good in the world, the President declares, and this is the best epoch of lofty, disinterested work. He regards hysterical sensationalism and violent emotionalism as among the poorest weapons in fighting for lasting righteousness, and honesty, saintly and self-restraint as the best.

The Gulls of Great Salt Lake.

Students in ornithology, the country over, are interested in the bird life peculiar to Great Salt Lake. When the Mormon pioneers, led by Brigham Young, arrived at Salt Lake valley in 1847, they found the sea-gulls in possession, and it was the gulls that swooped down on the grass-hoppers and saved the first crops from destruction and the Latter Day Saints from starvation a few months later. Hence it is that the sea-gull is a sacred bird in Utah. Mormons prayed fervently for succor in their trouble and in answer to their petitions the sea-gulls came and gorged on the insects and did not cease until the plague vanished. To-day whenever the farmer turns a furrow within fifteen or twenty miles of the lake there will be the gulls looking for worms until it seems as though the man and team must tread on the more venture-some. They even invade the suburbs of Salt Lake City in search of provender, and depraved indeed would be the boy who stalked them with his flipper. The sea-gull in Utah is immune. How they originally came to take up their abode upon Great Salt Lake has been subject for many an animated debate on the part of Utahans. Great Salt Lake is about 880 miles distant from the Pacific ocean, while the Sierra Nevada mountains and the grim American desert intervene. One thing is certain; they were the original settlers and they were probably in Utah when the big saline sea was an arm of the ocean.—George R. Carpenter, in Sunset Magazine for September.

THE FRISCO EARTHQUAKE.

Hundreds of People Killed and $200,000,000 of Property Destroyed.

The fearful disastrous earthquake followed by uncontrollable conflagrations has left nearly half of the city of San Francisco, California, in ruins. At least 800 people are dead, thousands are injured and $200,000,000 worth of property is destroyed.

The shock came without warning and buildings in all portions of the city tumbled to the earth, crushing their occupants beneath them. Conflagrations immediately broke out and as the water pipes had been destroyed but little remained save to watch the buildings burn.

The center of the shock seemed to be in that portion of the city reclaimed from the Bay, but the entire city and a dozen neighboring cities and towns suffered heavily. The great steel buildings alone were uniformly able to withstand the catastrophe. Among other towns which suffered from the shock are San Jose, fifty miles south, Stanford, Palo Alto, Redwood City, Menlo Park, Burlingame, Santa Rosa, Napa, Vallejo, and San Rafael. The town of San Mateo was flooded owing to bursting of mains.

Ghoul were shot by the military, under orders to dispose of them in that way.

All buildings of the Leland Stanford University were demolished, two students being killed and several badly hurt.

To Make Shoe Polish.

An excellent shoe polish is made by dissolving 4 ounces of gum arabic in 1 of a pint of good black ink. Then add 2 ounces of strong vinegar, and, lastly, an ounce of rectified spirits of Cultivation of Cabbage.

Market gardeners often raise earlier and larger cabbages than are usually found in even our best private gardens. One reason of this is probably due to the fact that the market gardeners grow cabbages on a large scale and use the horse hoe or cultivator between the rows of grown cabbages. This deep and thorough cultivation not only keeps the land free from weeds but it also prunes the roots and checks the growth of the cabbages for a short time though not for long. The roots which are pruned throw out numerous small fibers which feed on a rich surface soil rather than on the poorer subsoil. This check to the growth of the cabbage favors early maturity. But it should not be forgotten that it is indispensable to success that the land for earlier cabbages be very rich and the more one cultivates them the better.

wine. A paste blacking a famous German formula is made as follows: Ivory black, 1 part; molasses, 1/2 part; sweet oil, 1/2 part; mix, taking pains to add the oil slowly. Then stir in a mixture of hydrochloric acid, 1/2 part; oil of vitriol, 1/2 part; each separately diluted with twice its weight of water before mixing them. Both liquid and paste polish are greatly improved by gently simmering over a slow fire for eight or ten minutes, a few hours after the conclusion of the mixture of the ingredients, but before adding vinegar or acid. After beating, your preparation must be allowed to cool under cover, and finally given a vigorous stirring while mixing in the omitted ingredients.

Gasoline Motor.

The Union Pacific railroad has just turned out a new type of gasoline motors which is an improvement on the old type in several ways, the most noticeable being the "port hole" windows and the most serviceable being the new gearing which specially prepares the car for climbing grades. The entrance to the new car is on the side instead of at the end, as in former cars. The windows are air, water and dust proof and in connection with the new ventilating system are said to be perfect. The vibration and noise of the engine is largely eliminated and the mechanism of the car worked splendidly on the trial run, when a clip of 40 miles an hour was sustained for half an hour. Union Pacific officials say the experiments, which are not yet completed, will show this type of car to be the most perfect in existence.

Marriage in Scotland.

Even for a man to address a woman as his wife, either by writing or by speech, and for her to respond in the same terms constitute marriage in Scotland. Any one who has ever read Wilkie Collins' novel, "Man and Wife," will remember there a case in point. The heroine sends a note to the hero, signing herself "Your Wife." He is sufficiently careless and indifferent to write his reply on the back of her own letter and signs himself "Your Husband." This note, crumpled up and tossed aside as of no value, falls into the hands of an unscrupulous person, who to level blackmail on the hero, keeps it and produces it as evidence of marriage. No other form had been gone through, and yet the couple were married legally.

THE SAN FRANCISCO HORROR.

Through the daily press, most of our readers have learned of the terrible calamity which befell the "Golden Gate City" last week. Each new detail only adds to our horror and kindles fresh sympathy for those, who although far away, are none the less brothers and sisters of a common country. Nothing could emphasize more the fact that love of humanity is not dying out, nor giving place entirely to love of money, even in this age, than the ready and eager response to calls for help from the city by the Pacific. The Congress was prompt to act and the Government will send $2,500,000 to aid those plucky Americans, who have already taken steps to rebuild their once prosperous and beautiful city. Not only have American cities been prompt and generous, but from across the seas have come offers of assistance to the people of our distressed city. While the loss of life has been comparatively small, the property loss by earthquake and fire is one of the greatest in the world's history. In San Francisco and neighboring towns the property loss will be claimed, amount to $300,000,000, and this enormous sum does not include the depreciation in land values, which must follow, at least temporarily, as a result of the earthquake. May our country be spared such another catastrophe.

A lesson may be drawn from the awful destruction of San Francisco. In the midst of plenty, dwelling in peaceful, contented, happy homes, we are prone to forget our helpless condition. With all of our boasted progress in science, and invention, we cannot stop an eruption of Vesuvius, stay the rush of a tornado or tidal wave. The fire, which makes cheerful the home, and from which we draw so much comfort, may when not under control become a most destructive agency. After all, how little we know of the mighty elements of nature. How impotent, after all the ages of study and research, is the hand of man in the face of such a disaster as occurred last week, and may take place anywhere at any time.

The only safe rule is, to work as though you expect to live an hundred years, and live as though you may die at any moment.

THE enormous use of money in Presidential elections has for its chief cause the present Civil Service system. Time has been when any number of bright young men, with laudable ambition, could be secured by both parties to speak and assist in the necessary work of organization in every campaign. All this has been changed by the present system. Almost every avenue for holding Government position has been closed to young men of this generation. Who can blame them for demanding pay for their services? There is nothing else in sight. If the thousands of clerkships now held for life, too frequently by incompetents, were thrown open to those who may do honest party service, in our opinion, an enormous blow would be administered to the money power in its effort to control elections. It is no disgrace to have an ambition to hold office. It is rather a credit, and the young man who does party work, expecting a storekeeper's job or clerkship in one of the Departments should not have his ambition thwarted by statute any more than the man who seeks to become a member of Congress or lays his wires to capture the Presidency.

BECAUSE, in explaining an error in regard to Local Union dues, we stated last week that we had relied on Mr. Sharp's minutes as published in the Hartford Herald, that paper has taken serious offence. At the time the explanation was made, we did not dream but what the error was in the manuscript. The Herald knows, and we presume most all our readers know that when matter like this in question, is desired to be used in both papers, the manuscript is only used by the paper which goes to press first. Since the Herald has advertised its unreliability and warned us to stand on our own "bottom," we shall be more careful in the future.

In less than a year an extra session of the Legislature will have to be called to undo what the last regular session did to the Legislative districts. This will entail an additional expense to the tax-payers of many thousands of dollars; but what does the State machine care for all that. It is riding a high horse, and the rights of the common people are held in supreme contempt. When it wanted salaries raised and new offices created, money was plentiful; but not one cent for the Jamestown Exposition, a celebration in which our mother State, Virginia, is so vitally interested. A disgrace to Kentucky.

On the first page of this issue will be found a strong address issued by the Legislative committee, of which Senator Bennett is Chairman, showing the gross injustice of the recent act of the Legislature in gerrymandering Legislative districts. An appeal to the courts has been determined upon. It will require a considerable amount of money to prosecute the cases and our people, who have in effect been disfranchised so far as representation in the House goes, should be liberal in their contributions to this fund. Place the courts on record in this disgraceful matter.

An effort will be made to organize a "Lincoln League Club" in every voting precinct in Kentucky. This League has for its object the promulgation of the principles of the Republican party as taught by Lincoln, fair elections, fair primaries, an equal chance in the distribution of the officers and the elimination party boss. The purposes of the organization are laudable and should be encouraged everywhere. Only with such conditions as it proposes to establish, can the Republican party hope to again carry Kentucky.

THE Hartford Herald gives a short notice this week of an address issued by the Legislative Committee selected to try and rescue our county as a Representative district; but it takes due care not to print the address itself. Besides, it still refuses to give its readers a knowledge of the district as created by the late unlamented Legislature. Why not give your readers the benefit of this information?

HARTFORD has decided to celebrate home coming for the Ohio county wanderers with a mammoth street fair. It is up to the citizens to make it a success by giving aid to the committee in charge. Do not stand back or remain lukewarm and "cuss" the committee for mistakes, which might have been avoided by a timely suggestion from you.

It is to be hoped that those who own land in Hartford will soon open it up for residence lots. This town would now be twice as large, if people who desire to build here could have secured lots. Hartford, with her splendid school and healthy surroundings, has always been an attractive place to outsiders, even without railroad prospects.

A WIDELY advertised mass meeting in the interest of the California earthquake sufferers, at Louisville, was attended by about two hundred people. How soon they seem to have forgotten their own calamity sixteen years ago, and how quick the whole country responded to their calls for help.

If it were not for the extreme modesty of this paper, we would mention the numerous nice things which are being said of us, because of our presentation of the Greenville A. S. of E. meeting.

THE remains of John Paul Jones, or some other Jones, were moved some more this week, and will rest in peace, until the completion of a chapel in which they are to be permanently deposited.

Ohio County Relics Wanted.

The committee on Relics for Home Coming Week, in Louisville, June 13th to 17th, inclusive, desires that all counties in the State of Kentucky make a display of their relics on the balcony of new Armory during above named period, and you are urgently requested to send to this exhibition what you can in the way of relics of families and persons of the earlier days of Kentucky.

Relics will be given all possible care in possession of the Home Coming Week committee, and will be carefully boxed and returned to owners with freight or express charges paid each way by the Committee.

Street Fair for Home Coming Week.

The committee which was appointed to arrange some attraction for home coming week, met yesterday afternoon and decided to hold a Street Fair June 22 and 23 and to furnish in connection entertainment for the former Ohio county citizens who will be here then. The committee also unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the American Society of Equity to occupy Friday afternoon, and to arrange such programme for that time as they may deem best.

A list of premiums will be arranged and published next week, together with rules to govern the fair.

EMERGENCY PROMPTLY MET

San Francisco Disaster Marshaled Without Effort.

Congress Appropriates $2,500,000 for Relief of City---U.

S. Mint Saved.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Not since the reorganization of the Army in 1902 has it been called on to face an emergency of any sort. The disaster at San Francisco however, has proved an emergency of the first magnitude and it is a satisfaction to be able to report that the army has met it without apparent effort. The immensity of the loss at San Francisco from fire and earthquake has dwarfed everything else and the whole attention of most of Departments has been given to sending and receiving news, hurrying forward relief and authorizing the officers on the spot to make all sorts of provisions to meet the necessities of the case.

Secretary Taft said privately that he was glad they had an officer on the ground who came to the front like General Funston and did things first and asked authority afterward. Congress sunk all differences of party in passing the emergency appropriation bill giving $2,500,000 to be immediately available for the relief work. This bill was passed in record time and sent to the President, receiving his signature all within the space of six hours. The only amendment made to it was the next day when Senator Morgan introduced another resolution making it clear that the money was available for the purchase of medical supplies as well as food.

Telegraphers have been on duty constantly at the War and Navy Departments as in the days of the Spanish war, and the Secretaries of War and Navy and of Commerce and Labor have been in touch with the Departments over the phone at all hours. The Government for once has been effectively busy and harmonious orders have been flashed from Washington calling on the quartermasters and commissaries of the various army and naval posts most closely in touch with San Francisco to forward supplies as fast as they could be collected. It has been realized that the promptest relief was the most effective and the first train of government supplies was expected to reach San Francisco on Thursday night.

The cost of the disaster to the government will be enormous. The destruction in military and naval stores in and around San Francisco alone will be $2,500,000. In addition to that the damage to buildings and equipment must be counted, and there are $7,000,000 worth of government buildings within the area of the disturbance. The relief work including the appropriation from Congress will also amount into the millions.

The government has decided that there should be a representative of the administration on the spot and Secretary Metcalf has accordingly been selected and started for California on Friday night. His selection was the natural one as the Department of Commerce and Labor is already closely in touch, with the situation. It has ordered the Fish Commission Steamer Albatross and all the available tenders of the Light House Service to the aid of the sufferers. Secretary Metcalf's home is in Oakland and while he is accompanied in Washington by Mrs. Metcalf, he has a son and a sister in the stricken city from whom he has received no news since the disaster. The Secretary has borne up gamely under the personal distress that the news has caused him, and although he sent private messages and did all he could on the side to get track of his boy, he gave his first attention to the work of relief and let family matters come after.

Secretary Metcalf was preceded West a few hours by Representative Julius Kahn, of San Francisco, who was suffering peculiar tortures from the news. Less than 48 hours before the shock, Mr. Kahn received a telegram from San Francisco saying: "Mother and son doing well," and from that time the father has been able to hear nothing of either of them. He has haunted the telegraph and newspaper offices in Washington and done everything

PREPARATION

For spring crops is well under way by all farmers. Have you stopped to calculate on how you can obtain the best results and realize the most profit from the soil you cultivate and from the labor you perform? You have observed that it takes as much cultivation for an acre that produces twenty bushels per acre as one that produces forty bushels per acre. Now, if you can double your yield on the same amount of labor, you materially decrease your cost of production and increase your profit on its cultivation almost double. You haven't an acre on your farm that you can't increase your yield from fifty to one hundred per cent. by the proper use of

You say, "My corn land is very good this year and it will make corn without fertilizing." This very good land is the very soil that yields the best results from its use. Your hogs can forage around and barely live, but when you want to make them fat you feed them well. Often your land will barely keep alive from natural sources, but if you want it to reward you fully for your labors you must feed it and make it fat. We sell the very stuff that will do it. Use Challenge Corn Grower in the hill for your corn. Use Pure Bone broadcast on your land. Use Homestead Tobacco Grower for your tobacco and all crops. These goods are the standard of the world, and there is nothing made under the sun that excels them. We have just unloaded five car loads of these goods. Bring your wagons along. We are ready for the spring Fertilizer business which promises to be the best in our history. We sell Oliver Chilled Plows and Blount's True Blue One and Two Horse Plows. Superior Corn Drills. Superior Disc Harrows.

that ingenuity could suggest to get a message into the town and a reply has been transferred to the sub-out, but all in vain. Finally, able to stand the strain no longer, he took the train west and is now on his way to make personal inquiries.

The Secretary of the Treasury expressed himself as immensely pleased over the gallant fight that the employees had successfully made to save the mint, practically the only building left standing in the business district. This has saved the Government about $300,000,000 of coin and bullion intact, and there has been transferred to the sub-treasury at San Francisco an additional $10,000,000 to meet immediate needs.

The value of the wireless telegraph service in the Navy has also been demonstrated, as it was in this way that a part of the Pacific squadron was caught at sea off San Diego and rushed North to take part in the work of rescue.

The Bank of Hartford is adding another story consisting of two rooms to its bank building which will be occupied when completed by Superintending Engineer Faegan and force during the construction of the Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern Railroad.

Word reached this office late yesterday evening that Esquire Nicholas Barrass was not expected to live through the night. He has been ill for several months, and during all that time has been a patient sufferer. Should his illness prove fatal, he will be greatly missed as a citizen of the county.

Dr. S. J. Wedding had a severe attack of heart trouble last Saturday at noon. He was at his office and felt the trouble coming on and took heart stimulants such as are usually administered in such cases but for which the attack would have no doubt been more serious. He recovered in a few hours and was out next day.

Rev. E. M. Crowe, one of the oldest citizens of Hartford, and probably the oldest active minister in the county, will preach at the Methodist church here, next Sunday. Rev. Crowe and wife will leave in a few weeks for the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ella Crowe Barber, at Bowling Green, where they will make their future home.

PASSING OF COTTONWOODS

Only Ones Along the Missouri Are to Be Found on Government Reservations.

The giant cottonwood trees which once stood as great white-limbed sentinels along the Missouri river throughout all that section have come to be a thing of the past. Such is the report made by one of the owners of the steamer Moline of Kansas City, Mo., who is doing contract work along the stream and has been looking for big cottonwood trunks to be used as piling in river construction work.

He found that the only trees of this sort along either bank of the Missouri river, for 50 miles either way from Leavenworth, were in the government reservation of 1,000 acres on the Missouri bank of the river just opposite Fort Leavenworth.

When the first settlements began to grow up along the river in Kansas and western Missouri the banks were primeval forests of willow and sycamore and walnut, with many oaks, but, greatest of all, the giant cottonwood trees. Many of these old trees were more than 100 feet tall, with trunks that not infrequently measured five and six feet in diameter.

They seemed at once the boon and bugbear of the man who cleared his lot and put up his cabin; the one because of the immense amount of labor it took to bring one to the ground, and the other because of the fine, lasting building lumber which it yielded. Many of the first residences and business houses of Leavenworth were constructed mainly of planks and beams sawed from these great cottonwood logs. In many of the old houses the cottonwood lumber can be found to this day; thousands of feet of it have gone into the construction of the new federal prison, but now the supply is practically exhausted.

The government got its part which went into the prison from its 1,000 acre reservation, and it is in this patch of wood that the only even partial impression of what the big cottonwood forests once were can be obtained. Even in this stretch of the woods the larger trees have all been cut out, but the government wisely has hands its timbers, allowing the younger trees growing room and keeping them secure from the vandal and the professional woodsman.

Lincoln's Advice to Lawyers.
"Discourage litigation," was Lincoln's advice to lawyers. "Persuade your neighbors to compromise when ever you can. Point out to them how the nominal winner is often the real loser—In fees, expenses and of time. As a peacemaker the lawyer has a superior opportunity of being a good man. There will always be enough business. Never stir up a litigation. A worse man can scarcely be found than one who does this. Who can be more nearly a fiend than he who habitually overhauls the register of deeds in search of defects in titles whereon to stir up strife and put money in his pocket? A moral tone ought to be infused into the profession which should drive such men out of it."

It has been truly said that those words should be posted in every law office in the land, and it will be seen when Lincoln's record is fully examined that it was not a mere theorist who wrote them, but an active practitioner of wide experience who lived up to his own teaching.

Samuel Johnson and Woman.

Of marriage in the abstact Johnson highly approved. "Every man," he said "is a worse man in proportion as he is unfit for the married state." He approved of a man contracting a second marriage and considered it as a compliment to the first wife. He acknowledged however, that he had once been on the point of asking Mrs. Johnson not to marry again. She might well have granted his request without any fear of being tempted to break her promise. Johnson ridiculed the idea of a man being unwilling to marry a pretty woman lest he should have cause for jealousy. "No sir," he said "I would prefer a pretty woman unless there are objections to her. A pretty woman if she has a mind to be wicked can find a readier way than another and that is all." He had in fact made a profound study of women from every point of view. And yet Johnson never took women quite seriously and would not hear their assuming an equality with men either in mental or bodily pursuits.

Jennie—What way is that, mother? I don't know the Christian way.

Jennie—Oh, mother, I can't cut it! I'll give it to Willie and let him divide it between us in the Christian way.

Turndown embroidered collars of fine linen shaped like the stiff linen collars so long worn are very modish and the smart things to wear with one, is either a plaited rabat of fine lawn and lace or a little lingerie tie two or three inches wide and scalloped and embroidered around the edges or scalloped and finished by a very narrow frill of real Valenciennes.

Always Raining.

There is a group of islands to the south of New Zealand called the Sisters or Seven Sisters which are reputed to be subjected to a practically constant rainfall. The same may be said of the islands and mainland of Tierra del Fuego, saving for the difference that the rain often takes the form of sleet and snow. On a line running round the world from four to eight or nine degree there are patches over which rains seldom cease to fall. This is called the "zone of constant precipitation," but at the same time there are several localities along it with very little rainfall.

CHEAPEST FARM LAND.

Southwest Officers Best Opportunities for Securing Homes.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are selling their high priced lands and locating in the Southwest. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older county are buying land in the new country.

Unusual opportunities exist along the lines of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain Route. The rich, alluvial, delta lands and river bottom lands of Southeast Missouri, Eastern Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas capable of producing 60 bushels of corn, a bale of cotton, 4 to 6 tons of alfalfa, 150 bushels of potatoes, and other grain, vegetables and hay crops, can be bought for $7.50 to $15.00 per acre. When cleared and slightly improved will rent for $1.00 to $6.00 per acre cash.

Uplands more rolling, lighter soil, adapted to fruit growing—peaches, pears, plums, grapes, berries—also melons, tomatoes and other vegetables; can be bought for $5.000 to $10.00 per acre in unimproved state. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap.

This is a fine stock country. No long winter feeding. Free range, pure water, mild climate. A healthy growing country, with a great future.

FREE TRIP TO MAMMOTH CAVE.

Offered By The Republican to School Boys of Ohio County.

Our Readers Will Name the Most Popular Boy in Each Magisterial District.

How many persons in Ohio county have seen the Mammoth Cave? Situated less than 100 miles from us, it is visited every year by people from every land, as one of the seven wonders of the world. Doubtless many of our readers have been embarrassed when in other States, they were asked to describe the wonderful Kentucky Cave and were compelled to admit, to the utter astonishment of the questioner, that they have never seen it. To contribute somewhat toward this necessary part of the boys education, the management of this paper has decided to inaugurate a pilgrimage to the cave for the first week in September of this year, and seven school boys, one from each Magisterial district in Ohio county, between the ages of 12 and 20 will be given the trip free of charge accompanied by one of the editors.

OUR PLAN.

Every school boy in Ohio county who was not less than 12 nor more than 20 years old January 1, 1906, will be entitled to be voted for. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes cast for any one in his district will be entitled to the trip. Every candidate must reside in the district from which he is named, and the right is reserved to withdraw the offer in any district from which only one is nominated. Every year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN of $1.00, whether arrears or advance, will entitle the subscriber to 10 votes, and six months subscription to 5 votes. The names of candidates with number of votes received to date will be published each week. No employee or member of the family of any one connected with this paper will be eligible as a candidate. Persons sending votes by mail, will please cut out and use the following ballot:

THE DISTRICTS.

The seven Districts are made up of territory as follows:

THE CARPENTER'S SQUARE.

History of Its Invention and Manufac- ture.

Carpenters who use the common steel square a very necessary adjunct to their trade perhaps give little thought to how, when and where this article was first produced. While there are millions of squares manufactured and used annually all over the world when the nineteenth century was born there was not one in existence.

One dull, rainy day, Silas Howes a poor Vermont blacksmith who lived in South Shaftsbury, was called upon by a peddler of tinware to shoe a horse. These peddlers traveled up and down the country calling at every farm house buying everything in the way of barter. This one had a number of worn out steel squares that he had picked up at various places. Howes bargained for them shoeing the peddler's horse and receiving the squares in payment and each thought he had an excellent trade.

The blacksmith's idea was to polish and weld two saws together at right angles thus making a rule or measure superior to anything then in use. After a few attempts he succeeded in making a square, marked it off into inches and fractions of inches and found that it answered every purpose that he intended it for.

In the course of a few weeks during his spare hours he made a number of these squares which he sent out by peddlers who found ever carpenter anxious to buy. Soon he had orders coming in faster than he could supply the demand. One of his steel "squares" would sell for $5. or $6. which was five times as much as it cost him.

He applied for and obtained a patent on his invention so that no one else could deprive him of the profit it gave him. It was just after the war of 1812 and money was scarce and difficult to get. But he worked early and late, and as he earned money he bought iron and hired men to help him. In a few years he was able to erect a large factory and put in machinery for the making of squares which by this time had found their way all over the country and had made their inventor famous.

Such was the small begin as a large and important industry. People came miles to see the wonderful forges the showers of sparks flying from beneath the heavy hammer and to listen to the din of the thousand workmen.

Silas Howes lived to be a millionaire, and he did a great deal of good with his money. Squares are still made on the spot where the first one was thought out more than ninety-five years ago.

A Faithful Dog.

(Young Folks' Catholic Weekly.)

An interesting story of a dog has been told by a gentleman who was traveling in France during the late war with Germany. He met one day some wonderful soldiers returning to their regiments, and observed one of them who had a little dog, an iron-grey terrier, evidently English, following at his heels, but only on three legs. In an earnest manner the man told him how the dog had been the means of Providence of saving his master's life. He had been struck by a ball in the chest when fighting near Ham, and lay on the ground for six hours after the battle was over. He had not lost consciousness, but the blood was flowing freely and he was getting weaker and weaker. There were none but the dead near him, and his only company was the English terrier, who prowled restlessly round him, with its master's kepi (military cap) in its mouth. At last the dog set off at a trot and the wonderful soldier felt sure that his only friend had deserted him.

The night grew dark, and the cold intense, and he had not even the strength to touch his wounds, which every instant grew more painful. His limbs grew cold and feeling a sickly faintness stealing over him he gave up all hope of life and recommended himself to God. Suddenly when it had come to the worst, he heard a bark which he knew belonged ed to only one little dog in the world he felt something lick his face and saw the glare of lanterns. The dog wandered for miles till he reached a roadside inn. The people had heard the cannon all day, and seeing the kepi in the dogs mouth, and noticing his restless movements, followed him. He took them straight to the spot, faster than they could follow him with a little cart, just in time. When the friendly help arrived the man had fainted, but he was saved. Tears were in the man's eyes while he told the story. The dog had also been touched in the leg by a ball in the same battle, and had since been lame. He had got him when a puppy from a sailor at Dunkirk, and called him "Beal."

Editor Bound to Please Every- body.

Talking about the various persons who make and editor weary of life by telling him how to run his paper, Col. Charles A. Edward, of Texas, said the other day:

"I know all about it. I was an editor myself once down in Texas. One day a man came in and said to me:

"I have come in here to complain about this article you have in your paper to-day. I don't like it; its tone is undignified, its diction poor, its—"

"I pushed a button on my desk, and when the office boy leaped in I let out all the notches in my voice.

"Bring me," I thundered, an ax, a hammer, a six-shooter."

"Good Lord," said the kicker, pale faced and astonished; "what are you going to do?"

"I'm doing, sir," I replied, "to kill every printer and reporter in the place, and to smash every press and throw it in the river. What am I running a paper for, except to please everybody?"

Goes Two Better.

(Glasgow Republican.)

Muhlenberg county claims that William Allen, who was married twice and had twenty-four children is the most fatherly man in the State. Hart county can go Muhlenberg two better in that respect. Jacob Whitlow, a well-known negro of Munfordville, has been married but twice and has twenty-six children.

Bunyan Jaggers, a farmer of Winesap, in Hart county, is the father of twenty-four children all by the same wife.

A Young Mother at 70.

"My mother has suddenly been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering from dyspepsia had entirely disabled her, until six years ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured her and restored the strength and activity she had in the prime of life" writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danford, Me. Greatest restorative medicine on the globe. Sets Stomach, Liver and Kidneys right, purifies the blood, and cures Malaria, Biliousness and Weaknesses. Wonderful Nerve Tonic. Price 50c. Guaranteed by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.'s drug store.

Cure For Stinginess.

(From the Rehoboth Sunday Herald.)

A small church was sadly in want of general repairs, and a meeting was being held to raise funds for that purpose.

The minister having said to do the work $500 would be required a very wealthy (and equally stingy) member of the congregation rose and said he would give $1. Just as he sat down a lump of plaster fell from the ceiling and hit him upon the head, whereupon he rose hastily and called out that he had made a mistake—he would give $50. That was too much for an enthusiast present, who, forgetful of everything, called out fervently:

Oh, Lord, hit him again.

Uninterested.

"Over there, ladies and gentlemen," said the guide to the party of "personally conducteds," "are the famous mud baths of—"

"Don't interest me," said the gentleman from the United States indifferently. "I've run for office too many times at home."

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Made from Pure Grape Cream of Tartar

In baking powder Royal is the standard, the powder of highest reputation; found by the United States Government tests of greatest strength and purity.

It renders the food more healthful and palatable and is most economical in practical use.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy alum powders because they are "cheap." Yet some of the cheapest made powders are sold to consumers at the highest price.

Housekeepers should stop and think. Is it not better to buy the Royal and take no chances—the powder whose goodness and honesty are never questioned?

Is it economy to spoil your digestion by an alum-phosphate or other adulterated powder to save a few pennies?

SLEEPING CARS.

Their Uses and Abuses as Seen by Ohio Countian enroute to Sunny South.

The writer left Kentucky Tuesday April 17 on the New Orleans limited it ought to be called the unlimited if the name is to give a true index of the pullman charges and as I was traveling with a lady I had reserved two berths.

Now the word sleeping-car has never yet been accurately or truthfully defined. For the benefit of neophytes like myself the true definition is here given. Sleeping Car: An ingenious contrivance of the evil one planned for the purpose of plaguing country folk.

We got into Memphis at 10.45 P. M. and after directing that my sisters berth be prepared, I started out with a friend to look for John Reuben Reaves, as we had two hours to wait and John Reuben seemed to be well-known to the gentlemen of Memphis who wear white aprons, a number of whom we interviewed but this seemed to be his busy night as we were unable to locate him. A short while after mid-night we were escorted back to sleeper by a gentleman in a blue suit who carried an abbreviated walking stick with a strap attached thereto, which fastened around his wrist and we urged him to come and go with us but he was a churlish fellow and abruptly declined and when I got inside I found that the "nigger" had pulled down a section of the ceiling, tied it up with a chain and was pointing it out to me as my berth and I tried to get him to take it down and put it on top of the smoke stack because I would have more room and it would be equally as safe and easy of access but he was obdurate and refused me, and I tried to explain to him that in my present condition I was unable to jump up into the berth, but he whisked out a ladder similar to the one that Jacob saw in his vision except that this one was crooked and kept trying to dance and before I could protest he had deposited me in that martin box of a berth and was removing my shoes and I kicked vigorously but ineffectually.

We are now 4.30 P. M. April 18, nearing New Orleans rushing through fields of growing corn gliding through woodlands rich with verdure and aromatic with blossom and promise of blossom, pausing at large towns and small cities that are almost submerged with roses and blossoming vines and past orange groves and forests of magnolia, with an occasional homestead standing entombed in vine as a memorial of the "days befo' the war."

From the tail end of a sleeping car the South impresses one as beautiful to look at, dull to live in.

TIME IS AT HAND FOR DIET

And So This Plump Little Woman Decides on One More Day of Enjoyment—Eats Big Meal.

In a lunch room a stout, overdressed woman excited the envy and admiration of the thin, dyspeptic little woman on the opposite side of the table. The orders of the stout one seemed given with the intent of including everything that was tasty and indigestible on the bill of fare, without regard to which meal she was eating or to the order in which the dishes were served, relates the New York Press.

At different times she had fried oysters, chicken croquets, and shrimp salad with olives, and lettuce sandwiches and hot rolls. The thin woman dallied interminably over her frugal bowl of crackers and milk just to watch her. Finally, when the stout woman wound up by asking for a slice of layer cake, a piece of mince pie, pineapple sherbert and a cup of coffee for dessert, the thin woman could contain herself no longer.

"My, it's no wonder you look so hearty and well, with a digestion like that," she remarked. "If I should eat even one of those things I'd be dead to-morrow."

"Mercy, you don't think I am hearty and well because I am stout, do you?" exclaimed the other. "I don't. I think to be this stout is almost a disease. That's why I'm going on diet—partly that and partly my digestion. It's been awfully poor lately. O, I'm not on diet now," she added, hastily, catching the blank expression of the woman opposite. "I'm going to begin to-morrow. The doctor says it's positively necessary for my health in every way, and for three months after this I won't be allowed to eat anything which I really like. So I just made up my mind to enjoy myself thoroughly for to-day anyhow, since I won't have another chance for so long a time. My dinner to-night will be my last good meal. I suppose after three such meals as I'll have to-day I'll be feeling terrible to-morrow. So it won't be so hard for me to begin the dieting."

"I'm sorry for you," said the thin little woman.

HIS DOG PROVES EXPENSIVE

Twenty Cents Necessary for Return of $200 Canine—Expected to Pay at Least $60.

A doctor living in Washington, District of Columbia, says a writer in the Post of that city, recently lost a full-blooded Airedale terrier, and the question of the compensation to be given to the finder, if the dog was returned, was under discussion between the doctor and a friend.

"It will be a heavy reward to pay," said the doctor.

"Guess it will," said the friend. "About $50," sorrowfully murmured the doctor.

"More likely $60," said the friend, briskly.

"I wish the dog had stayed at home," said the doctor.

"It would have been less expensive," declared the friend.

"He was a rare and handsome animal!" proudly exclaimed the doctor.

"Nothing like him in the district," agreed the friend.

"Pedigree and style considered, worth fully $200," declared the doctor.

"And the finder will know it, too!" cried the friend.

"Afraid so," huskily whispered the doctor.

"Expensive dogs are expensive," philosophized the friend. "Better have your check ready for $60. The dog is sure to be returned."

"Hate to have to do it," said the doctor, "but a $200 dog is worth it, I suppose."

Here the butler appeared with a note for the doctor. This is how it read:

"Will doc please give me 20 cents for Returning his Yeller dorg. i hate ter ask so much but i had ter feed it for too Days."

Scientific Fact.

Light clothes are cool in summer, because they reflect the sun's rays instead of absorbing them.

To prove this, place two thermometers in the sun, one covered with white cloth, the other with black. The latter will record the higher temperature.

SEES ALCOHOL IN BREAD.

Four Pints of Whisky in a Year Is Record of Average Flour-Eating Individual.

"You consumed four pints of whisky last year," said the amateur chemist, according to the New York Press. "Now, don't be angry or shocked. I know that you're a strict teetotaler, but just the same I know that you've absorbed that much alcohol. How? Well, simply by eating bread."

"It has long been known that the fermentation of bread caused the fermentation of alcohol, but it was supposed that it passed from the dough during the process of baking. Several scientists have now come forward and proved that bread, when ready for eating, contains an average of .800 per cent. of alcohol to the loaf. You must remember that in many countries strong liquors are brewed from bread. Kvass, the mild Russian beer, is brewed from brown bread."

"Now, if you eat 400 loaves of bread every year—a low estimate—you must perforce have assimilated 20 ounces of alcohol, which equals four pints of rye whisky—enough bottled dynamite to make a whole fishing party see pink elephants flying among the clouds."

"In ten years," concluded the amateur chemist impressively, "you have eaten 4,000 loaves of bread, and in that number of loaves is about 200 ounces of alcohol, or the equivalent of 19 quarts of whisky. Think of the saturnalia you have been on for the last ten years, and you never knew enough to complain of a big head in the morning."

Telephone Patents.

A patent every day for the year 1905 is the telephone record. During the last year there were issued about 365 patents for inventions relating to telephony, or an average of one daily. This represents 30 per cent. increase over the year 1904, and nearly 100 per cent. increase over 1903.
